

Tipped for the Top

We all know that Rolls-Royce Silver Ghosts, certain Ferraris, Jaguar E-types, even the humble Morris Minor, 'Frog-eye' Austin-Healey Sprite and many others, have achieved, or are in the throes of achieving, motoring immortality. But there are many other cars — the 'second stringers', if you like — which we believe tend to be overlooked, and which we think could reach 'collectable' status in years to come. Here we list 45 cars that we reckon will make it — some, indeed, are nearly there already — and most can be picked up fairly cheaply. But for how long?

MG YA/YB saloon

For: archetypal Trad. Brit. small saloon, rather overshadowed by sporty T-series. Generally reliable, good looker.

Against: rust around rear, not very quick.

Price range: £100-£1500.

Sum-up: one of our favourites.
